Weekly Newsletter

Hello Parents,

It's official, we finally made it to spring! While the weather has not been the greatest this week, we were able to get the students outside for some fresh, spring air. This week we read all about the latest and greatest smart home devices, as well as why smart devices are so helpful in our everyday lives. This week's recipe was also a big hit, so please be sure to review the newspaper with your child. This week marked the end of the Pennsylvania State Alternate Assessment (PASA), and I'm happy to report everyone did their best. We will have results in the fall. Finally, I want to remind you that conferences are next week. If you would like to meet with me or speak over the phone, Tuesday and Wednesday are the available days. I have sent home conference times, so please make a choice and return them by Tuesday. Both conference dates will be early dismissal days. Have a wonderful weekend.

Sincerely,
Jason Gonzalez
