Weekly Newsletter

Hello Parents,

It looks like we have finally made it to fall! It was nice to have a day without humidity and some sunshine. This week we read all about Octopuses and made small octopuses from hot dogs. We also began working on fall packets covering all of the different aspects of the season. We took our first of three trips to the Upper Darby High School swimming pool. The students all did a wonderful job and made us proud with their demonstration of good behavior and following the rules of the pool. We even had a few students jump off the big diving board! We will be going back again on Wednesday. I will be sending home another reminder on Tuesday. Finally, I want to let you know that we are celebrating Principal's Month. The students all wrote letters to Mr. Comfort, letting him know how much and why they appreciate him. I hope you all have a wonderful weekend and enjoy the cooler weather. It is long overdue!

Sincerely,
Jason Gonzalez
